ALBANIA ARMS RESERVES, DUCE WARSHIPS MOVE

Americanism . . . His Subject—Congressman Martin Dies, Texan, famous for House probe into alien "isms," arrives in Boston with his son, Joseph, 3, for an address on "Americanism" before the Chamber of Commerce today . . . and eats a hearty breakfast at the Copley Plaza. His talk included a resume of investigations of subversive activities in Massachusetts.

Albania—Italian warships arrive; troops due to land today and take three ports; King Zog and Mussolini said to have agreed on "protectorate."

Britain—Anglo-Polish protection "stop-Hitler" accord reached; Nazi spies to be deported; British officials fear Hitler Easter week-end air raid.

Italy—Mussolini flies to Adriatic to inspect forces ready to grab Albania; Berlin reports Hitler moves "to teach Chamberlain a lesson."

ITALIAN WARSHIPS IN ALBANIA

HISTORY REPEATS—Once more troopships leave Italy, bound for foreign soil . . . and conquest. This time, Albania is the prize . . . and Italian troops, fresh from Spain and Ethiopia, are preparing to land. The photo, taken at Naples during the African "war," is a picture today of Italy . . . on the Adriatic.

BULLETIN

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 6 (AP)—Reports to Belgrade from Tirana today told of an elaborate Italian naval display off the Albanian coast. While private and diplomatic reports agreed troops had not yet landed, Italian destroyers were reported darting about the harbors of San Giovanni di Medua in the north, and Valona.

Three Italian warships were anchored at Durazzo. Informed sources considered this a warning to Yugoslavia and Greece to stay out of the Anglo-French anti-aggression bloc.

TIRANA, April 6 (AP)—An Italian cruiser and two destroyers arrived at Durazzo, Albania, this morning as Albania feverishly discussed reports of an imminent Italian occupation.

Many Albanian reservists have been mobilized. Twenty truck loads of arms were sent yesterday to Valona, the southern port of Albania.

There was some feeling in diplomatic circles that the Albanian government might try to resist any landing of Italians.

There was a distinct possibility, however, that the government might, on the other hand, find a formula under which Italian occupation would be accepted.

Crowds of Albanians gathered outside the foreign ministry, seeking some inkling of what was going on.

People in the streets freely expressed their desire to resist any military occupation.

Plane service from Tirana to Italy, ostensibly toward strengthening of the 1927 defensive alliance between the two countries, have been going on for several days.

King Zog, after the birth of an heir to the throne yesterday, conferred nearly five hours with his cabinet.

King Zog received the Italian minister, Francesco Jacomoni, in a private audience that lasted two hours this morning.

The tense situation cast gloom over the national celebrations of the birth of a crown prince to Zog and Queen Geraldine.

Fear of German Air Bombers Over Easter Grips Londoners

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

LONDON, April 6 (INS)—Fear darkens Europe's Easter and today, as Britain was announcing an Anglo-Polish pact against aggression, the Rome-Berlin axis powers mockingly prepared fresh threats of aggression at all points of the compass.

Menaces to the security of Britain and her allies came from points as remote as Gibraltar, Albania and eastern Europe, but nearest and keenest was the menace felt by England of a possible, even though remotely possible, direct air attack upon London or the British fleet over the Easter week-end.

Speculation over the chance the axis might attack frontally over the Easter week-end was shared by the highest government circles, but every effort was made to avoid agitating the public.

GLOOM IN LONDON

The best parliamentary correspondent of Britain's best informed newspaper on foreign affairs today had deleted by his editor the following sentences:

"Government circles hold that the possibility of Easter air raids in Britain was not excluded."

Authoritative Britishers face Easter with the following gloomy facts which make it the least peaceful and unhappiest Easter since the war.

First, the signing of the Anglo-Polish pact did insure that for the time being Germany would have to fight on two fronts if she started a war now, but on the other hand it also aroused the fanatic hatred and resentment of Chancellor Hitler and Germany.

Second, it was freshly recollected that Hitler publicly swore to break up Prime Minister Neville Cham-

$5000 2-ALARM FIRE IN W. END TENEMENTS

Three children were rescued and a fireman was injured today when fire swept two tenement houses in Wall street, West End.

Two alarms were sounded as the blaze threatened other tenements in the congested areas. Firemen assisted many of the 14 older occupants to safety.

Mrs. Carmella Bellistri ran through smoke-filled hallways and reached the street with her four-year-old daughter, Anna, clasped in her arms.

Another heroine was Mrs. Mary Poortoian, who lives about 100 yards away on Lowell street. She ran to the scene and assisted her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Drenger, to carry their children, Robert, an infant, and Nicholas, 7, to safety.

Fireman John Mahoney of Engine 8 was cut by flying glass. He was treated at the scene and returned to duty.

Fire Chief Samuel J. Pope estimated damage at $5000. He said the blaze apparently started on the fourth floor of one tenement and spread through the upper floors of the adjoining buildings. The cause was not immediately determined.

Nuns Save 9 Babes In Me. Hospital Fire

WATERVILLE, Me., April 6—Heroic nuns, nurses and firemen today saved the lives of 26 persons—nine of them newborn babies—when a general alarm fire swept the St. Vincent's maternity wing of Sisters' Hospital.

Led by Sister Camilla, superintendent of the hospital, nurses entered smoke and flames to carry out nine infants, all less than two weeks old.

Sister Camilla, who has been ill, collapsed from the experience.

Nine mothers and eight other expectant mothers were also carried or aided from the three-story wooden wing of the hospital.

Firemen carried many of those trapped down ladders.

Firemen said the blaze started in a basement storeroom and spread swiftly through the building.

Meanwhile, other nurses and sisters quieted patients in the adjoining new hospital building, a fireproof structure and one of the largest of Maine's hospitals.

Flames were discovered by the night supervisor sweeping up from the basement, shortly before daybreak.

Nuns and nurses completed the transfer of patients to the adjoining hospital while firemen battled the flames. Fire officials estimated damage at $15,000.

Man-Under-Bed Suspect Trapped By Mark of Heel

They do say that most women are ever apprehensive that some night they will find a strange man under the bed—and it came true today for two Cambridge women.

Mrs. Sadie Andrews, 32, employe in a Harvard dining hall, was awakened shortly after midnight by arrival of a friend, Miss Rose Long, 30, of Prospect street, Somerville.

The latter was invited to remain for the night and the two women were talking when Miss Long, noting the spread was out of place and partly under the bed, leaned over to adjust it.

Under the bed she saw a youth—and she screamed. Before her hostess had time to realize what had happened, the startled intruder, about 20, rolled from under the bed, leaped up and dived through the open window to the ground, five feet below.

The women notified police, who found a perfect print of a rubber heel on the window sill, made apparently when the youth entered.

A short time later they picked up an intoxicated youth in the neighborhood. The print matched his heels.

On information the youth had been seen earlier with a companion, apparently trying to enter other apartments, police sought the second youth.

Probe Broker's Death, 'Loss' Of $625,000

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—The death of Irving Eaton, stock broker, who was fatally scalded in his apartment three weeks ago, and the apparent disappearance of his inherited wealth were under investigation today by the district attorney's office.

Jacob Rosenblum, assistant district attorney and head of the homicide bureau, summoned Harry A. Gordon, attorney for the sole beneficiary of Eaton's will, to give any information he might have about Eaton's death.

Eaton, 49, a Californian, came to New York in 1929, reputedly a millionaire. He inherited $500,000 five years ago and was bequeathed $125,000 more by an aunt, Mrs. Harriet A. Myers of Denver.

When his will, leaving his estate to Mrs. Mimi Tuthill, was filed, the accompanying petition said he was worth "less than $10,000" and later estimates set the total at $1000.

UPSIDE-DOWN GIRL WINS NEW FAME

A scant four years ago, thousands of sympathetic Bostonians were praying none-too-hopefully for recovery of smiling little Alyce Jane McHenry, "upside-down stomach" girl who came here all the way from Kansas City, Neb., to put her life in the hands of Dr. Philemon E. Truesdale, distinguished Fall River surgeon.

Crippled by her strange ailment, slowly starving because of her inability to eat normally, brave 13-year-old Alyce Jane had one unconquerable asset—her amazing courage!

Joy was widespread when she survived the long and difficult operation she underwent at the Truesdale Hospital.

Today her many Boston friends and sympathizers had new and happy tidings of her.

From New York came announcement that Alyce Jane, now 17 and a glowing, dark-haired beauty, will pose as a "typical athletic young American girl" for posters to be circulated nationally by the Swim for Health Association.

Recent pictures of Alyce Jane, accompanying the good news from New York, showed her still wearing her famous smile—the smile that endeared her to Boston and to the nation—the smile that she wore through the "Valley of the Shadow"!

COAL GAS KILLS ARLINGTON BABY WHILE HE SLEEPS

Victims of coal gas, an Arlington boy, one-year-old, was found dead in bed today, while his two and a half-year-old brother, discovered unconscious, was saved only by prompt medical treatment.

Pronounced dead was James P. Maguire of Brookdale road, while under treatment at Symmes Arlington Hospital is Francis L. Maguire, 3rd.

Discovery of the tradegy was made by their mother, Mrs. Francis L. Maguire, Jr., when she went into the room of the two children, which is heated by a register from the hot air furnace.

She called Dr. Daniel J. Buckley, who found the year-old boy dead. After giving first aid treatment to little Francis, the doctor raced him to the hospital, where it was said he will recover.

The mother and father, as well as two other children, James, three, and Miriam, five, sleeping in other sections of the house, were not affected by the gas.

The father operates a filling station near his home.

Bogus Nurses Blame Theft on Finery Lure

It started with two pairs of shoes and two pairs of stockings, valued in all at $7.50. Then there was a powder puff, some powder and lip-stick, valued at 60 cents.

Cheap little things, and pitiful in their portent of punishment, for, today, two girls—19 and 20—stood before a judge, accused of stealing them.

"What bothers me," said Judge Joseph Riley in municipal court, "isn't what you stole, but that you tried to pass yourselves off on the court as registered nurses, dishonoring a fine profession.

"Thirty days in jail each, but—"Sentence is suspended . . ."

The girls, Katherine Maloney, 20, and Frances O'Connor, who shared a Beacon street, Back Bay, apartment, were arrested Tuesday after taking the things in two Washington street stores. They told police they were registered nurses, which proved untrue, although each had had practical training.

The things, they said, were taken because they had no money, and wanted to dress up for Easter. Investigation disclosed that the O'Connor girl, whose name is really O'Connell, is on probation from Waltham court and she went to face a charge of probation violation there. Miss Maloney was released.

THRONGS IN VISIT TO CHURCHES

Thousands of Catholics in Greater Boston today moved from church to church, praying at repositories in remembrance of Christ's Last Supper.

The worshippers visited seven churches in accordance with the Holy Thursday tradition. Because the day commemorates the institution of the sacrament of the Holy Eucharist, the Catholic observance took on a special significance.

Pontifical high mass was celebrated at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross by Bishop Francis J. Spellman.

2000 AT RITES

The impressive rites, including the Maundy Thursday blessing of the holy oils, were attended by more than 2000 persons. Thirty priests were within the sanctuary.

Rev. Harry O'Connor assisted Bishop Spellman in the mass. Deacon was Rev. Peter McDonough; sub-deacon Rev. Edward J. Sullivan; deacons of honor, Rev. Robert Barry and Rev. Richard Quinlan.

Singing was by the Cathedral choir of 80 voices and by St. John's Seminary choir from Brighton.

Six simultaneous noonday services, the largest number ever conducted by Protestant churches in Boston, began at Tremont Temple, Trinity Church, Cathedral Church, King's Chapel, Park Street Church and Old South Meeting House. Similar services will be held today and tomorrow.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Rev. Charles E. Raven, chaplain to King George VI and recently elected master of Christ College, Cambridge, England, will preach at Emmanuel Church, Newbury st., at 5:15 this afternoon and will conduct the three-hour service at Trinity Church tomorrow afternoon.

Following solemn high masses in all Catholic churches today, there will be impressive processions in which the Sacred Host will be transferred to an altar of repose, where it will remain until the mass of the Presanctified tomorrow morning.

Fear of foul play in the disappearance of two Salem men, now missing for five days, was increased today when police learned that one of the men recently purchased an automobile, but left it at the seller's garage.

The other missing man is Lionel Bernier, 24, a WPA worker. The two Berniers, although friends, are not related.

Arms Expert Says Divorcee Could Have Fired Fatal Shot

It would have been possible, but difficult, for Mrs. Helen Darragh Dale, pretty divorcee, to shoot herself in the breast at the angle found, it was testified today in superior court, where George T. Knox is on trial for her murder.

The former state trooper is charged with having wounded her fatally in his Commonwealth avenue apartment on May 22, 1937.

Sergeant Edward J. Seiboldt, Boston police ballistics expert, staged a bit of drama in the court room today when he seated himself in the armchair where she was found and demonstrated the difficulty a person would encounter in inflicting a bullet wound in his own left breast at the angle of the wound found in Mrs. Dale.

It could be accomplished by use of the thumb, Seiboldt said.

Another member of the department, Police Chemist Frank L. Stratton, testified his tests showed the divorcee had been drinking before she was shot.

He said he found .08 per cent of alcohol in her blood, .09 per cent in the stomach and .04 per cent in the brain.

His tests also proved that she had been shot at close range in the left breast. Stratton said, traces of gunpowder being found around the bullet hole in her sweater.

FOUND LIQUOR IN BOTTLE

The police chemist identified the sweater, a brassiere and a skirt as clothing worn by the dead woman.

He likewise identified a pint bottle, half filled with whiskey, as that turned over to him for analysis, and said the whiskey was 89 proof, with an alcohol content of 44.5 per cent.

The bottle was found in Knox's apartment, according to witnesses, one stating it had been on the floor beside Mrs. Dale, the other testifying he took it from beneath the cushion on which she was sitting.

Dr. Louis M. Schwartz, executive officer at City Hospital, testified he admitted Mrs. Dale there at 4.30 p. m. on the day of the shooting, May 22, 1937, when police arrived with her.

DOCTOR ON STAND

She had been shot in the left breast, Dr. Schwartz said, and she died at 1.10 a. m. the following day, from shock induced by the bullet wound.

The varying testimony relative to the whiskey bottle was given by Sergt. William H. Long of Boston police and William E. Marland, superintendent of the Commonwealth avenue apartment house where the fatal shooting occurred.

Sergeant Long said he found the bottle behind the cushion, while Marland said he had seen it on the floor when he entered.

Sergt. Long, attached to the Back Bay police station, had testified as a government witness that he responded to a call for police after Knox had run downstairs from his Commonwealth ave. apartment and informed the janitor Mrs. Dale had been shot.

BOYS HELD AS 'THRILL BANDITS'

Seized today and held for questioning at Boston police headquarters, three Boston and Quincy high school seniors and a 16-year-old Dorchester boy allegedly told an amazing story of a three months crime career as "thrill bandits."

A fifth youth, William F. Miles, 18-year-old North Quincy high school honor student, was arrested in Quincy charged with a $2.10 "Lovers Lane" robbery in Wollaston.

Judge Kenneth Nash ordered him held in $1000 in Quincy court.

The four boys held in Boston allegedly confessed a series of "Lovers Lane" holdups, with young couples spooning in parked automobiles the victims.

From partial descriptions furnished by victims, one of the suspects was tentatively identified.

Last night, he was arrested in his Dorchester home following the holdup of Nathan Lerner, 27, of Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, in Franklin avenue, Mattapan. Lerner and a companion, Miss Gertrude Chanak, 28, of Vesta road, Dorchester, were robbed of $15. The other arrests followed.

Find Guns After E. Boston Row

Five guns were found concealed in an East Boston house today by police as they investigated circumstances of a "battle royal" in Day square, in which two men allegedly battered each other with a concrete slab and baseball bat.

According to police, the fight started after a brick was hurled through the window of a cafe in Chelsea street, at Day square.

James Moran, 45, of Falcon street, East Boston, proprietor, had been hiding in the cafe after closing time hoping to catch the person responsible for tossing stones through his window, police said.

Hearing the crash of glass, Moran ran out, police said, and was hit by a man who was standing on the sidewalk with a concrete slab. Moran, with a baseball bat, drove the man away, police stated.

Moran's alleged assailant later was found.

Going to his home, officers said they found two automatics, two 38-caliber revolvers and a rifle.

Refused Auto, Quits As Bermuda Governor

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 6 (INS)—Sir Reginald J. T. Hildyard's resignation as governor of Bermuda because he "found it impossible to carry out properly the duties incumbent on his office without a motor car," was accepted by the British government, it was announced today.

The governor had twice requested the assembly to grant him permission to use an automobile on the island, but had twice been refused.

QUODDY BILL SIGNED

AUGUSTA, Me., April 6 — The way was cleared today for federal action on a $37,000,000 power project when Governor Lewis Barrows signed a bill creating the Passamaquoddy District Authority.

Two Boston Doctors Trace Start of Human Life

Two Boston doctors, it was revealed today, have brought science closer to tracing the actual beginning of human life through their discovery and study of a complete 12-day ovum.

The ovum was recovered from a prospective mother during an operation which necessitated removal of tissue—and at a time before conception could have been discovered normally.

Science has isolated other early human ova, but those near the 12-day stage were either not intact or were improperly preserved.

According to the Boston doctors, the ovum they have been studying may provide a standard for "true-to-life abnormalities" in other early ova contributing toward deaths of infants before birth.

The doctors are Arthur T. Hertig of Newton and John Rock of West Roxbury.

Both are members of the staff of Harvard medical school and are associated with the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

In disclosing their findings at the 26th annual meeting of the American Association of Anatomists, the doctors said it was conceivable this normal ovum would aid toward determination of the causes of many miscarriages.

DEATH DIVE ENDS HER 'ROMANCE'

NEW YORK, April 6 (INS)—A romantic interlude ended in death today for Helen Bero, 24, of Toronto, who died after a plunge from a tenth-floor window of the Hotel Taft where she had been registered overnight as the wife of a Toronto department store executive.

Still alive when discovered on a second-floor extension roof, the girl was taken to Metropolitan Hospital but died en route.

Questioned Donald L. Kahn, of Toronto, who admitted, officers said, that he and Helen had registered at the hotel as man and wife after a motor trip from Toronto.

Kahn identified the girl as the daughter of his landlady in the Canadian city.

Kahn said that after the couple had breakfasted this morning, Helen went into the bathroom. When she failed to emerge, he knocked on the door and, failing to gain any response, broke down the door, stumbling into the bathroom—empty and with the small window open.

"It was such a small window that I don't see how it could have been an accident," said Kahn.

"But she never hinted at suicide, though she has been very depressed and nervous lately."

Questioned concerning circumstances of the man-and-wife registration, Kahn said:

"We wanted to get a good night's rest before I drove her over to visit her relatives in Ridgefield, N. J."

Police took Kahn to a precinct station for further questioning.

Coyne Blasts Plan To Limit Aged Fund

Representative Francis X. Coyne today assailed the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Association's demand that the state limit its contribution toward old age assistance to $10 for each individual monthly as "cold, brutal economy."

Coyne said that the limitation would cause a "shifting of the financial responsibility from the state budget to the cities and towns."

Court Weighs Support Cut Plea of 'No Talk' Husband

How can a husband making $1600 a year increase—or even keep up—separate support payments to his wife when he already is paying her $1000 a year and paying taxes of another $1000?

This was the matter studied today by Judge John C. Leggat of Middlesex Probate Court in a case which he branded "the strangest he ever heard."

It concerned a man and wife, legally separated, living together in the same house without speaking for 12 years, yet eating the same food in the same kitchen—but never together.

The man is Nathan Robbins, 73, Eastern avenue, Arlington, gentleman farmer and scion of a distinguished family, which gave the town of Arlington the Robbins Memorial Town Hall, the Robbins Library and other buildings.

Mrs. Robbins

The wife is Mrs. May Robbins, member of a Colonial family, former president of the Daughters of Union Veterans, and one-time secretary to Whitelaw Reid, former United States ambassador to Germany.

WIFE'S PLEA DENIED

After hearing petitions of both—one of the wife's to increase weekly support of $20 and one of the husband's to decrease that amount—Judge Leggat declared:

"I don't know what it is expected I can do on this evidence. I can't very well increase payments when the husband's income already is insufficient. There is a question as to whether they should be decreased."

He then denied Mrs. Robbins' petition and took under advisement that of the husband.

In answer to questioning, Robbins said:

"It's true we've been unfriendly for several years. I feed myself. My expenses?—about $1 a day. Mrs. Robbins has her own telephone."

He had a five-cent pay station phone established in the house for himself.

Mrs Robbins charged that proper management by her husband would make the farm pay.

"There's no fighting system in the house," she told Judge Leggat.

Communists and Fascists in America are united in a common cause—to bring about establishment of a dictatorship at expense of the rights and liberties of individuals

"All three cults teach that the state is everything, the individual is nothing; that mankind should accomplish through statism what he has heretofore accomplished through private initiative, individual effort and moral and religious guidance.

"The best friends of Fascism and Communism in the United States are those who advocate unsound measures which will cripple the capitalistic system. Democracy is retreating in the United States and in its place is being established a totalitarian state.

"Bureaucracy is the intermediate step to dictatorship. Many of the functions of government are now performed by non-elected officials. If this trend continues, Congress will disappear.

"Another great fallacy is this crazy notion that we can make the world safe for democracy. We have our hands full making democracy work in the United States.

"If we have come to the belief that the government should support us all, that is the end of democracy. The trouble with Russia is that they have begun to support them but they [illegible] democratic process [illegible] gram which would [illegible] talism to freedom.

Dies Won First Fame by Fight On Sit-Downers

It was Vice Pres. John Nance ("Cactus Jack," Garner) who gave young Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of Americanism, his first big break in Congress.

"He asked me," said Congressman Dies, "if I had courage enough to make a speech against sit-down strikes. I told him I had and would so I introduced a bill making them illegal and it was defeated—but I had my say."

It was the Dies committee's drive on sit-downers, which is credited with having effected defeat of Attorney General Frank Murphy for the governorship of Michigan.

The Life of Christ

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

"And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name: him they compelled to bear His cross."—St Matthew XXVII, 32.

BY COLLIN CLINE

DOMINEE D. MASTERSON'S [illegible] reverent, shows our Savior being [illegible] the weight of the cross.

Tradition says the mournful procession passed through a narrow, winding street known as Via Dolorosa, or the Way of Sorrow. Of course it was thronged with spectators, many of them drawn to the scene by mere curiosity. But, too, there must have been hundreds who had witnessed His miracles.

We can imagine their grief as they saw Him being led away to the most horrible [illegible].

The Bible [illegible] the weeping and lamentation [illegible] Lord's human sufferings and said:

"Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for Me, but weep for yourselves and for your children."

Even unto death, His love for humanity endured.

Early manuscripts reveal that one of the women, pitying Him as He sank to His knees, stepped forward and wiped the blood from His face with her veil. Her name was Veronica.

The veil, showing the imprint of the Master's countenance is today one of Christianity's most priceless treasures.

TOMORROW, the story of Christ's holy life continues in the Boston Evening American. Illustrating the sad episode will be a forceful and accurate depiction of the Crucifixion.

TODAY'S ARMY DAY differs from its predecessors. Consequently, its observance assumes new significance and importance.

In the past, it was our proud privilege to honor the valorous men who had served their country heroically in its emergencies.

That is no longer sufficient, though our reverence for yesterday's [illegible] was [illegible].

Now, because of the policies of other nations which are either engaged in wars or preparing for them, we are reluctantly obliged [illegible].

This [illegible] of going to war. Our people [illegible] at any cost, save that [illegible].

[illegible] and yet [illegible] ARMY OF DEFENSE!

[illegible] Holy War [illegible] entangled [illegible] NOT OUR AIMS, where [illegible] NOT OUR ARMIES, whose greed is NOT OURS, [illegible] NOT OF IT WARS.

Let us [illegible] the whole world.

Human Side of News -:- by EDWIN C. HILL

THE HOLY LAND of three great religions is in turmoil as this Easter dawns and the Passover is celebrated.

The Holy City is patrolled by armed soldiery and the highways are guarded by [illegible]. Riots and reprisals [illegible] of calamity and the way to tranquility is not yet shown.

But with all the [illegible] and agonies of a world cursed by fear and the threat of war, Easter continues to signify something profound and indestructible. It signifies that if the human spirit wrestles to keep its faith even more does the [illegible] strive to hold on to his [illegible].

[illegible] there were [illegible] theological controversies about the proper date for Easter. The Western churches [illegible] on the Sunday after the 14th day. In the year 325 A. D. the Council of Nicea ruled in favor of the Western churches.

Camilla

by Anne Stretton, who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

Who's Who and What's Happened:

CAMILLA and MARK might have come into a fine inheritance if their father, a famous but eccentric writer, had married their mother. But this he neglected to do, and when he died he left no provision for his children. He did, however, leave a life interest in the house to their father.

GLADYS who had a natural attraction at all for Camilla and Mark. And he wanted the hands of Dora, too.

SIMON, a cousin of Simon's, and the estate eventually and was trustworthily settled with Camilla and Mark. But not much was left after the estate duties. So Camilla and Mark kept friendly about it on the whole struggle. They had no idea Simon was in love, or they'd have left him to it.

EVELYN is Dora Evans' sister. She arrived at the house unexpectedly. Simon was disappointed because she didn't appear to like his cousins, Camilla and Mark.

Mark told Evelyn he didn't remember his father. She knew it was a lie, of course. He meant her to know he would not talk of his father.

"Did Mark show you the swallows' nests?" Camilla asked rather timidly.

"I think I've seen all there is to see," Evelyn replied. "It's very pretty. But the lake is very muddy and shallow."

NEW HOPE IN TRUCK WAR SEEN

A reported shift of emphasis pertinent to proposals for legislative measures on the basis of Federal $5,000,000 highway subsidy payments touching truck drivers' union issues held the best promise of settlement in the dispute of labor warfare which has tied up transportation facilities of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Austen Lake:

Art and Connie in New Hockey Hokum

CONNIE SMYTHE IS A MISCHIEVOUS MIDGET with a puckish humor and a dash of Bowser, who manages the Toronto Maple Leafs. Arthur Ross is a morose tragedian with spiritual dispepsia and a fondness for puckering up a coroner's puss, who manages the Boston Bruins. Put together the spell b-l-u-s-t-e-r.

AUSTEN LAKE

So what now? So, after playing eight games with the Bruins last winter, Corny Connie has just discovered that Boston's hockey hooks are longer than the 53 inches allowed by league law. Hack 'em down, he says, or he'll force 'em to be sawed at rink-side tonight. So Uncle Art yells back in his best Shakespearian manner that the Toronto goalie, Turk Broda, has been wearing leg-upholstery wider than the prescribed 12 inches and demands that the extra width be trimmed off before 8:30 P. M., or he, Uncle Art, will come out with a pair of sheep shears and barber them on the ice. One dastardly plus two dastardlies makes very dastardly indeed.

As though any National League hockey manager ever bothered about the rules before. Why, half the didoes on the rink are not covered by the stuffy legalisms of the hockey code, and the referees frequently write themselves a punishment to fit the crime on the spur of the moment—as when Mickey Ion did his back-flip over the boards in the second Bruins-Ranger game and nullified a Boston goal because he was blinded by a lady-customer's lingerie. You won't find that one in the hockey Blackstone.

Grove Supreme On Hill

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 6.—Any doubt in the minds of Boston baseball fans that Lefty Grove isn't ready was dispelled after his four-inning session against the hard-hitting Reds. Old Mose went four innings and allowed the opposition but four hits, which was certainly enough for his mates to go ahead and win, two runs being the margin.

Dorchester Fan Solves Problem

Like the winding brook, it goes on forever. Today's mail brought a flock of letters on the qualifications of the Bees and Red Sox. Of the hundreds received, the one from George Ford of Erie street, Dorchester, offers a solution to the problem. Here is George's letter, also others that want to express their views.

DORCHESTER, April 6, 1939

Mr Jack Conway,
Dear Sir

After reading about different fans' letters comparing the Bs with the Red Sox I say they need their heads examined

To start off with Tom Yawkey has dug down in his pocket and produced a great team of sluggers and had it not been for the misfortune of Grove's arm going dead last year we would have been playing the World Series here in Boston. I'm not saying this as a Red Sox fan because in fact I am a Bees fan ever since they were the Braves and I saw many a great game over at the Bs field

I will start off and give you the statistics on both teams. At the catching department we will give the nod to Al Lopez and on the pitching we also have to concede to the Bees but don't forget that the Bees flingers have not faced opposition like the Sox and had they done this we might have had a different story. But in any other part of the lineup the Sox are away ahead of Irs and compare Fletcher with Bess. You can do it in fielding but that don't win ball games. Cuccinello is a better hitter in his department at second and Jimmy Tabor takes the nod for third base. Then we go to the outfield and we find that the Sox are better. You see they all can hit and that's what the fans want

So them are my statistics and I hope you find them interesting

Even though I hate to say, quoting as a Bees rooter, I must say you cannot start to compare the Bees with the Sox and after all why should we be doing this

After all we should wish Casey Stengel and Joe Cronin the best of luck with their teams

Very truly yours,
M GEORGE FORD.

Dear Mr Conway

In regard to the superior of the Boston teams one must pick the Red Sox. But don't think that I'm not a backer of the Bees. You see I am always pulling for the Bees to come out on top in the National League and the Sox in the American. Its hard to compare these two teams because their respective leagues play an altogether different brand of ball

Bob Quinn and Casey Stengel have a scrappy team and there is one that will match it over at Fenway Park. Bob Quinn has added more strength to the Bees with his young rookies and the veteran players acquired from other major teams. On the other hand, Joe Cronin must be given credit for the job he is doing to give the Sox a pitching staff and Boston a pennant. So fans, why don't we get behind both teams and cheer them on and probably in the near future we may have the Sox and Bees fighting it out for the World Series and we could then pick a favorite to get behind and cheer on to victory.

The Sox and Bees will have a great season this year and with a little good luck they will be in there at the close of October raking in monies. Hoping that I will be seeing you at both the Beehive and Fenway Park, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

word that human tongue could be set to. Then, to the great delight of all, both rose and clasped hands with a trace of a moisture in their eyes.

Well, what now? Both have gone back to their original cow hand characters, a-yelling and a-cussing by telephone and tonight, if you are there, you will see Connie performing his monkey on a stick trait while Arthur tears the last whisps from his thinning scalp. Why is this? Because, in each good manager, be it hockey, baseball or boxing there must be a strong mixture of Ham—a love of extemporaneous hoopla.

It recalls the night, some years ago when Pinkhated Connie was cutting a shinnanigan at the Boston Garden, sometimes shinnying over the rail and chasing the officials around the ice and sometimes just splitting everybody's eardrums.

Everybody seemed to enjoy it but the dour visaged Uncle Art.
Did he laugh?
He did not!
He had Mr. Smythe extracted from the player's bench and installed in a balcony pew with two stalwart John Laws behind him. And when Mr. Smythe stood up to scream two brawny paws rammed him down again. That happened to be in Boston. So Mr. Ross could write his own rules and Connie had to conform to his host's notion of correct behavior.

So, if the two old recalcitrants wish to embroider the game with a lot of hallucinated hokem, I would remind the local citizens that they are only willing stooges who, deep down in the subterranean tunnels of their souls, hold each other with a lot of affection. So tonight, don't rip off the seat irons and slug each other over the pot, or don't heave any empty drinking flasks or dynamite sticks. It's fun, folks, pure, unadulterated fun at prices ranging from 75c to $2.50 tops.

Sox, Reds Exhibition Series Financial Flop

By JOE CASHMAN

FLORENCE, S. C., April 6—There's great interest in the Red Sox-Reds barnstorming tour except in the towns the caravan visits.

In fact, the exhibition series between the flame-colored rivals is receiving unprecedented attention.

A Chicago paper has assigned one of its crack correspondents to cover the games. Crosley radio chain has an announcer along broadcasting the tilts.

A flock of play-by-play descriptions are ordered every afternoon.

But the attendance thus far has been very disappointing.

The clubs drew little more than enough to pay hotel expenses in Macon and Augusta. They fared better in Columbia, but the crowd fell far short of capacity.

Whether or not it has had any effect on the size of the gatherings, the advance arrangements for the games have been very poor up to now.

The local baseball people in the towns visited sponsor the frays and get 25 per cent of the receipts for their trouble.

It might be imagined that they wouldn't miss a trick in their endeavors to get a big house, but they've missed plenty.

This is surprising, too, because Macon is a Brooklyn farm and Augusta is a Yankee affiliate and the officials in charge are supposed to know their business.

The biggest mistake made in that town, though, was in having a string of freight cars standing on a siding just beyond the rightfield fence.

If Larry MacPhail gets wind of this, Brooklyn is likely to have a few new farm bosses in Macon.

At Augusta, the game received a minimum of advance advertising. To make matters worse, the sponsors scared customers away by giving more prominent display to a $1.50 price for boxes, which they set, than to the $1 charge for grandstand and 75-cent bleacher admission which the contending clubs ask.

JOHNNY PEACOCK
Brilliant Sox Rookie Catcher

Senators Test Bees Pitching Strength

By JACK CONWAY

SEBRING, Fla., April 6—The Bees started their barnstorming tour here today with a game with Newark. The clan of Stengel already has one verdict to its credit over Newark and planned to make it two in a row today.

The Bees open a three-game series with the Senators in Orlando tomorrow.

The Bees management has let it be known that it is particularly satisfied with the catching of Al Lopez.

Bucky Harris says that in his opinion Lopez is today the greatest catcher in baseball with the possible exception of Bill Dickey of the Yankees.

When Lopez ends his career as an active player, he will be retained as a coach this writer learned on the highest authority.

During the training season, Lopez has spent as much time perfecting the catching of youthful Phil Masi and Stanley Andrews as he has in his own work.

LOPEZ GOOD TEACHER

Lopez is a natural teacher. He has been particularly successful in imparting his knowledge of catching to young Masi who looks as if he is going to develop into one of the great backstops of the game.

Lopez has helped a great deal in the pitching successes of Lou Fette, Jim Turner and Danny MacFayden. Even a top flinger is continually in trouble if he has not the support of a steady, reliable catcher like Lopez who knows the strong and weak points of every batter in the league.

Lopez isn't a great hitter like Bill Dickey, while he never possessed the battering punch of Mickey Cochrane. As a receiver, Lopez is able to do things that neither Dickey nor Cochrane were ever able to accomplish.

There is a great lack of suitable catching material in the big leagues. Catching is a hard, exacting job and youthful ball players prefer other positions. In doing so, they sacrifice what would be a better opportunity to make good. With so few first-class catchers, a rookie can land a job in this department easier than in any other.

The trading of Al Todd to Brooklyn has acted as a tonic to Masi and Andrews. These rookies know they are going to be retained by the Bees and will make every effort to show to advantage.

NATS PITCHERS BEST

The games with the Senators will give the Bees batters plenty of opportunities to get their eyes on the ball. The Senators flinging staff has shown to good advantage so far this season. The Washington pitchers have plenty of smoke on their fast balls, while their curves are breaking well.

The Bees pitchers are fast rounding into nine-inning form. Fette, Turner and MacFayden look as if they will be ready to take their regular turns in the box at the start of the season.

Bruins 10 to 8 Over Leafs

apolis for a tryout. He looked so promising that Manager Art Ross released Hal Winkler, a veteran goalie, and decided to sink or swim with the raw recruit.

Tiny Thompson was a sensation that season, allowing only 52 goals in 44 games. Then, Tiny withstood the onslaughts of the Maroons in the N. H. L. championship series and allowed Rangers only one goal in the Stanley Cup finals.

Early this season Art Ross again elected to change horses in the middle of the stream. He sold his veteran goalie, the same Tiny Thompson, who broke into the N. H. L. most auspiciously, to the Detroit Red Wings and brought Frankie Brimsek, who had had but one year's experience in pro hockey, up from the Rhode Island Reds.

During his freshmen year in the N. H. L. Frankie Brimsek was the stand-out goal tender. He was selected on the N. H. L. All-Star team, an honor never before tendered a rookie goalie. He turned in ten shutouts and then stood up throughout seven tough games with the New York Rangers.

Will Frankie Brimsek duplicate Tiny Thompson's 1929 feat and bring the Stanley Cup back to Boston?

Adams for Point System in Hockey ⁞ Long Games Are Harmful to Stars

SEBRING, Fla., April 6—Charles F. Adams, who brought professional hockey to Boston and who turned over the Bruins to his son, Weston, after he had made the game a million-dollar business, is of the opinion that the present system of playoffs is wrong.

"I believe the recent gruelling series between the Bruins and the Rangers proves my contention," declared Adams. "The long, overtime games were too much of a physical strain on the players as well as on the fans.

"The Bruins must now battle the Toronto Maple Leafs in another series which will decide the winner of the famous Stanley Cup.

"There should be a point system with overtime limited to 20 minutes other than in the final and deciding game of a series.

"There could be two points for each game. In the event of a tie, each club would be awarded one point.

"Other than in the final game, overtime never should exceed 20 minutes. The first overtime period could be for ten minutes, while the second overtime period could be a sudden death with a ten-minute limit.

"If each club had six points at the end of six games, the final game would be to a positive finish.

"Under our present system, we are burning up hockey assets in these long games. The players give every ounce of energy at their command, but as a result of their efforts often show poorly the following season."

STANLEY CUP WINNERS HIT SKID FOLLOWING SEASON

Adams called attention to the fate of clubs that win the Stanley Cup.

"They usually crash the following season," asserted Adams. "When the Bruins last won the Stanley Cup, they had a complete reversal of form the following season. The same was true of Detroit and Chicago. It is because the two best teams were obliged to go through a gruelling series before they enter the Stanley Cup battles.

"There are so many young players on the Bruins that Art Ross' club will probably stand this extra strain better than most outfits. The player about 27 years of age, who still should have several years of hockey ahead of him, is one of the chief sufferers from these long games. This type of player can travel at top speed for the regulation distance without ill effects, but when he is obliged to participate in Marathon contests that last until 1 o'clock in the morning he often starts down the old toboggan."

BEST HORSES IN COUNTRY TO RUN ON NEW ENGLAND TRACKS

"I know that when the series is over that there will be plenty of champagne for all of the Bruins who care to have it. I think there should also be champagne for those fans who sat through the overtime games. They certainly assimilated plenty of punishment."

Adams considers the Bruins the strongest club in hockey, and he is of the opinion they will turn back the Toronto Maple Leafs as they did the Rangers.

While in Florida with the Bees, Adams has found time to talk horse racing as well as hockey.

"I believe the New England racing season that opens with the Narragansett Park meeting on April 22 will be a good one," said Adams. "I talked with Bob Shelley, racing secretary at Narragansett Park, and Charley McLennan, racing secretary at Suffolk Downs, when I was at Tropical Park, and they both assured me they will have the best of horses for their meetings.

"Narragansett will get the benefit of staging the first meeting. I am willing that this condition always exits as Charley McLellan is engaged as racing secretary at Havre De Grace and Pimlico early in the season. Narragansett is also warmer early in the season than either Suffolk Downs or Rockingham Park, and is the ideal spot for the New England opening.
